

The Color of the New World

By Cindy & Michael Fess

Michael:

These are amazing times we live in ... where one can actually have their dreams and live them to their fullest potential right before your very eyes. Never has the power to 'imagine' been more important, for it is the fuel of your dreams. The veil is so thin now that your every thought, however slight or magnificent, is heard almost before it is imagined. That's the way it was "back in the day" and that is what it has come to now. Atlantis (the masculine) and Lemuria (the feminine) have both risen in their collective energies to be married as one, united consciousness. If you are reading this, you had lifetimes in one or both of these societies.

If you feel you live in a separate and isolated community doing the 'Lightworker Dance' ...then of course, that's true. But I see the world waking up all around me on every level - and it no longer surprises me-- I am no longer amazed. I grin and take it in stride.

One good way to judge where you're at is your level of compassion--exactly where is it? Where is your level of tolerance with people all around you in all walks of life? Are you forever aggravated at those 'asleep' or do you push ahead working for a brighter day?

One thing is for sure- nobody is going anywhere any faster than their own love will take them. The speed of love is the most absolute power in the universe. Your vibration is always true ...you can't fake it.

Cindy:

In this new world we are moving into, love, truth, and integrity are the ideals that become reality. Any action that is not based in love and integrity will be brought to light, so that it may be sloughed off like dead skin. This is a time when all must be balanced—balance in the economy, in our relationships, in our own bodies. Mind, body, and spirit must be in balance. The world around us is just a big reflection of what is out of balance in our own lives. So, you will get strong signals when something is out of balance in your own life. Sometimes, the signals will be like alarm bells going off in the form of a crisis, so it's best not to let things get to that point. Do you need more sleep, more exercise, more playtime? Do you need more time with family and friends, or just more time alone? In the new world, we are free to create exactly what we desire, and what we desire must be in alignment with our highest and most benevolent good. So, we are going to be constantly challenged so that we can become harmonious in our own bodies and lives.

Michael:

The extraterrestrials have always told us they know exactly where we are ‘at’ collectively, just by the color of our planet. They also see earth’s chakras and gage us that way, too. The universe does not need to study the collective consciousness of Gaia from a book - only by the colors we emanate as one people. So I see the color of Man as an ever-evolving and ever-changing model that continues to grow from Love. Everything that ‘is’ emit’s a color-everything that ‘is’ emit’s a tone. We were sung into existence just like the rest of Creation and we are held together as one beautiful melody in the cosmic chord of the Universe.

Cindy:

I’ve always loved the song, “Color My World,” by Chicago. It’s true: we can color our world whatever hue we want. Do we want ours to be a dull gray? If so, we can obsess about the dire situation of our economy. Or, we can choose to rise above this negativity. Everything is energy. Once we understand this, it is much easier to set positive energy into motion. We live in an abundant universe where energy is free to harness. But, we must allow it to flow from us, and at the same time, back to us. Think of the infinity symbol—it is a loop of energy that is constantly circulating. When we go into fear, we stop the good flow of energy (in the form of money, goods, love, and so on). Therefore, step away from fear of lack, and act as if all good things are coming to you. Give thanks that they are already on their way. Then, release your attachment to when and how those good things come to you.
